Looking for an easy way to keep track of your itinerary? If you said yes, then you're in luck! Here are 15 free itinerary templates to use for planning trips and to keep your important flights, hotels and activity details information organized. Just click on the title link to check out each template. If you like the template, you will be able to download them on your computer, or print them to be filled in by hand (you can also fill them out on your computer as well). They are fill out type forms, and most of them give you a bird's eye view of your important travel dates, accommodation location, flight details, etc. These travel planning templates are used for all types of travel. You could keep a family vacation organized or run a solo trip through Europe – you'll find many templates here to keep your travels organized. Here they are: 1) Excel Itinerary Template for travel This Excel travel template is one of the best itineraries if you will be flying, renting a car, booking a hotel or several hotels, and going to meetings. This template is especially useful to be used for a business itinerary and business trip planning. It will be empty when you download it. You will simply add in your specific travel details then print this baby up! 2) Vacation Itinerary Planner & Flight Itinerary Template Here is an easy-to-use vacation itinerary planning a page page to manage your important holiday details. There is a section for your flights where you will be able to write down the most important flight details (date, airline, departure/arrival, duration and if there are any stops. It's a great way to keep your flights organized especially if you make multiple flights to your destination or fly multiple airlines throughout your trip from city to city. You can use the flight travel section alone to track your flights. The other sections are great too, where you can manage your car rental itinerary, the details of your hotel, and even any activities you will be doing abroad. I like this template because it's a page tracking of all your important holiday information. It's a really good template for managing your vacation while you're away or also helping to plan your vacation in advance to see all your details on a birds eye view. 3) Excel Travel Budget Template (travel money template) This template is specific to manage your budget while traveling. It's got a neat little circle chart that breaks down what your money goes for as well. This is an excellent tool in excel format to pre plan your finances before your trip to see how much money you will spend and where your money will go to. It's also a good lookup sheet to budget your trip during the planning phase. It's in excel format so you need Microsoft office or an equivalent software to open and edit it. I highly recommend using this budget travel template before traveling. 4) Travel Itinerary Mall from Travel. Paint. Repeat This can be used for all types of travel, whether you want to keep order for family vacation trips or make a solo backpacking trip. This template is very good if you want a detailed itinerary that keeps you very much on track from day to day trips. If you are looking for a detailed travel itinerary, this is likely the best for you. There is also plenty of room to write down other important travel information. The best part is that it's organized by day, so it's more of a daily travel itinerary planner, and you can edit the columns to include whatever header you want. This is done by a blogger who travels. She uses it to plan all her trips and it's a substitute for an electronic itinerary template that you use on your phone. You will receive instructions on how to fill it out. It's a PDF itinerary format so it means you can print it and fill it out by hand or edit your travel details on a computer. 5) 2 Custom Disney World Travel Itinerary Templates If you're going to Disney World, use this Disney template! This template is made for parents who take their children on a Disney vacation. It's super fun and your kids will love it. It's a custom template that gives you a little extra touch for your Disney vacation. The image above is one of the templates you can make. There is another one that you can also use when you check out their website. There are two total templates that are meant to be edited and filled in on a computer. You can download the Disney Word template or GIMP template so it's nice that it comes in two versions. 6) Sample Microsoft Word Transportation Itinerary This Microsoft Word travel template is mostly a transportation trip that you should use to organize your travel plans. It's a great way to keep track of your flight records on a single page. There is also a place for vehicle rental information and hotel information. But the best part of it is how easy it is to keep your flights organized by legs. So if you visit many cities or countries at once, this is a great flight template to use. In addition, if you fly multiple flights to reach a single destination, this is also a great template to quickly see when your flights are scheduled to depart with a quick glance. You will be able to track each flight by writing down the airline's info, gate and terminal info, checking in time for your flight, departure time and arrival time, and whether the flight is a transfer flight or final destination. I absolutely love this flight it is the perfect for someone who will take a lot of flights on their travels. 7) Travelfy App & Free Word And Excel Itinerary Template Builder Travelfy is an app that you can use on your phone or computer to plan your trip. It's a great app that's detailed and gives you ideas on what to do no matter where you go. You can use the app to create an itinerary based on your interests in which city you visit. It is a full travel app that you will use your to manage and complete your itinerary If you don't want to use the app, you can download the free Microsoft Word & Excel travel itinerary at hand writing your itinerary. The documents will be blank so you can fill in any title section you want. It's marked nicely so it looks good. It's mostly a blank travel sheet where you decide which headings to use. So it's a great sample itinerary you can use for all kinds of trips. You can use to keep track of your flight schedule, hotels you will stay at, car rental you will rent, and everything else. Or a combination of everything. The holiday itinerary comes in Excel format or Word format which is great. You will need Microsoft to open the docs up but if you don't have it, that's fine. Because no matter what program your computer has, let's say Apple has its own version of Microsoft documents, (pages are what it's called), it can open up those documents. 8) Excel Travel Templates For Planning A Trip This template is perhaps the best of bunch es as it is an all in one trip planning template where you can write down all the logistical information about your trip. There is room to fill in many different types of information, including accommodation, transportation, packing list and emergency information. So not only is it good for you to take on your trip, it's also an incredibly good travel template to leave your family at home so they can stay in touch with where you are on your current travels. This travel template is free too. To use this template, open it and simply fill in the boxes with your computer. You can also print the template and complete it by hand, which may be easier. This is easily one of my favorite travel planning templates to use for different types of vacation trips, family trips, or individual trips. 9) Ready Made Vacation Itinerary Template (PDF format) This template is one of my favorite travel planning templates due to the professional feel and design. If you are looking for a neat template to give to someone for some reason, which maybe for business trips or just to give to a family member to keep track of your travel logistics, this is a great one to use for it's professional template feel. This travel template will track the three most important items, your flight details, hotel details, and any activity details. They are tracked in an easy-to-see way, with a cover letter type first page that's pretty cool. You will be able to write down your flight details, including departure and arrival times, dates, which airline it is and which terminal. And for the hotel's itinerary tracking section, you can note the hotel name, check in time, address and check out time. This is a simple itinerary in total and it is easy to use and understand. It's a great place to start if you're looking for a basic standard itinerary template. 10) Travel Template Itinerary For Travel Travel (PDF format) This template is meant to help you your activities throughout the trip. It is most useful to be used as a template to note down the many things you will do every day. I can see that it is particularly useful for travel entrepreneurs who have many meetings throughout the day they need to keep track of. It is also a great attractions travel planning itinerary to use as well as for anyone who has several things planned every day to do. You have the option to track your information about the arrival date, the time the event takes place, the activity name, and the location of the event. You track each item during each day it falls on. Overall, this template is best suited as a business planner or for anyone who has several things to do every day and needs a way to keep the day organized with list bullet points of things that should happen every day through the event. 11) Example Travel Checklist Template If you are looking for a simple easy to use checklist for travel, and you have many things to write down and check off your checklist, this is a very easy to use and simple sample checklist you can use for your travels. You can use it as a checklist for all the things you need to do before you travel or as a checklist for when you travel and to tick things as you complete them. It's a great template to use to make sure you do all the things you wanted to do while traveling. This is more of a sample trip organizing template that has already been filled in. Simply delete the items and fill in your own. You can also change the headings to be whatever travel details you need it to be. 12) Pinterest Travel Planning Itinerary Templates (different types) Pinterest is a gold mine for many different types of itineraries you can use for travel. You have to go through many of them to find the ones that make sense because Pinterest brings them all together into one place and it's not too organized. But the good thing is that there are a lot of templates to choose from so you can find what you need from there to help plan your trip. 13) One Page Travel Itinerary Template Cheat Sheet This template is perhaps the best one page template to track all your important travel information on a sheet. It keeps you incredibly organized at a glance. This template was made by the travel blog peanuts and pretzels who know a lot about traveling. This template is a bit more unique than other templates because it is made by a travel blogger who customized it specifically for travelers to keep them on track, so it has a more personal and useful touch to it. You'll be able to track your basic travel information about the day, like what you'll be doing that day, and the activities you'll be doing every day (and the dollar cost for each activity 100), and there's another section to manage your hotel information as well as contact information. The last section will help you manage your other useful tips or information that will be important to remind yourself. Again, this is a page travel organizing checklist keeps everything nice and and together. 14) Empty Holiday Travel itinerary If you are looking for a very very simple one page paper to write down your travel details on the day, then this may be one for you. It is super simple and is meant to be filled in by hand. The only thing that is organized is the date and you simply fill in what you want by date. It's like a notepad essentially. This is a great option to print and fill by hand. 15) Trip Planner Apps If you are looking for apps to plan your trips as opposed to a paper print, go see this article on the best trip planner apps and travel planning sites.
